

A book Review

by Preacher

Here at FRP, we strive to be a bit different than your typical everyday run of the mill rag. In short, there is more to us than meets the eye. Case in point, a book written by one of our previous cover bikes (October 2005), owner Paul Boes or Feathercloud as he would like to be called. He wrote a book called "Circle of Poetry" that I found to be very intriguing while reading through it. I find it very cool that a person can be so open with their thoughts while having some really deep down honesty that makes up this 4 part book.

The 1st part "Mother" pertains to Earth and all the different parts that make her up. From sky, water, grass and oil. To me this way of thinking really gives new insight to the way I look at our surroundings.

Part 2 "Life" is dedicated to the precious and grand realities of life in separate but similar endings and outcomes. With his thoughts on Religion, the freedom he feels while on his bike, to the friends that make up Featherclouds very own circle. The honesty of what true brotherhood is about, to the family that surrounds him.

Part 3 "Love" is based on the Love that is abound when you find that person/Soul Mate that was created just for you.

Part 4 "Death" was put in words the way I can see and would like myself to be seen after my passing. The passage to a greater place that will have only a better destination for my soul after leaving the material world behind.

I found this book to have a very deep meaning in my life that I can relate to in an everyday confused world. The kind of thinking that brightens the day enough to make me smile. The feelings this book brings out could be found in each one of us at one point or another. Do I recommend this reading, you bet. I think it would bring out the creativity in most of you.

Harley bike Club visits Woodland

The residents at Woodland Village Nursing Center in Oconto enjoyed a special holiday treat. Members of the Wildfire Hog Chapter hosted a special holiday Bingo night at the nursing home. The idea was inspired by member Pearl Christopherson who wanted to spread holiday cheer in a new way this holiday season.

The motorcycle club is based out of Peshtigo in correlation with the Vandervest HD retail store owned and operated by Rick and Lynn Vandervest. The bike club purchased special prizes for the event. The Harley group called the numbers and assisted individuals with their bingo cards. The evening was topped off with a special Christmas carol presentation led by Pearl with her guitar. The club was invited back in spring when they could ride their bikes to the facility. All involved enjoyed the intergenerational event.

Thanks to Pearl Christopherson, and Kathy Langill of Vandervest HD for sending this event in.

As I say, covering an event can be just this easy and let the world know what the motorcycle community is all about.
