Hardtails 6th Annual Waterproofing Party held May 29th was just as I expected, considering the source of the event. Since I heard about the Leather Waterproofing party a few years ago, I wondered what it was. My curiosity finally got the best of me.

By the time I got to the bar about noon, I'm really wondering what this is about. Getting there just in time to get some patio decorating tips from Annie. After moving the tables and chairs 3 or 4 times, they finally found their home.

If I would have added 2+2, I would have figured out that it was just what it sounds like, waterproofing peoples leathers. No, that's to easy with Mark and Jodi. There's got to be a catch. No Catch!!! Mark was in the basement doing the proofing while everyone else listened to Iggy Rae Viscius playing some good southern boogie in between raindrops. With some great eats being served up including some bean concoction that was awesome (My compliments to the chef), and going all out with waitresses and everything.

Now that I know what I'm in for, plan on me being there again and again. You been warned.

So next time your in Hortonville, WI stop in.

PS: Thx for the great raffle prize: HE-HE
