The Greatest Show on Earth
 By Ronda Larkin
 Nov. 21, 2009

Festivities come once a year. There's so much to be done.
 Keeping up appearances,
 I've missed out on the fun.

Acting as the clean-up crew around the circus tent,
 I've pushed around the broom and cart,
 And, missed the main event.

I didn't see the red-nosed clowns perform their silly act.
 Or hear the roars of laughter,
 When children interact.

When animals messed up the show, I've smiled and cleaned the rings.
 (While inwardly desiring,
 The END the New Year brings)

This year I've got a new approach; I'm cutting loose with grace.
 I'll wait until the circus ends,
 Then, shovel out the place.
