Chopper's World

I put my bike away for the winter in mid-November. Whenever I heard others say how biking is so freeing, and how people who ride are so sane because if it, I didn't believe it. I figured nothing could be that great. Okay, I admit it everyone else was right, it is that great and more.

The day my family and I put my bike away wasn't to bad, the excitement of the first snow, along with the chill in the air, made the dreaded job a necessity. As matter of fact, the first couple of days weren't bad at al. Then a long weekend came. They were 4 long days. I think my children fought over the color of the sky even. I could have really used a ride. It was then the no bike riding withdrawals set in. This summer my husband and I would drive around all day long every weekend. Nothing bothered me, it couldn't, I was concentrating on driving to much. There is good news though.

In January the motorcycle swap meet season starts where I live. There are several smaller ones at various Armories, one at Hallenbeck Hall on the Campus of Saint Cloud State University in Saint Cloud, and the big Granddaddy of them all, The Donnie Smith Invitational on March 25-26 in St Paul at the Excel Centre. (I'll have pictures.) I've been going there for awhile and enjoy it every time.

It gets better every year. The bikes get more amazing. So for now I guess I have to be content with the bike shows on the Speed Channel (check out the new show, "V Twin T.V.") and wait for the day it is warm enough to ride. I can't wait. Until then, bundle up and stay warm, winter can't last forever can it? E-mail me at chopper@meltel.net
