Free Riders Press

The best LITTLE Biker Rag with a BIG ASS Attitude

Well, if you said a prayer, or got drunk and said, "I wish the Free Riders Press" was still around, you called it right. Many say, this paper was too embedded in my life to just walk away. But whatever any of you think, I am back and am going to try to live up to the kind of high standard I have grown into this paper. The only thing that may be a little different is the fact that I may say or do some things that may tick off some of the readership. My wife keeps telling me to "behave", but I have sort of come to forget what that word curtails.

I will let you know that I did work the other job till the beginning of November while Lorie and I was in Galveston, TX for the Lone Star rally, were the boss let me know that there was no money to pay me anymore starting the next day. Hmmmm, what would any normal person do? Probably shoot and ask questions later, or maybe say, "Thanks a million for nothin'". But not me, I prefer to look at things as a jump start to the next event in my life. And that is round two of the FRP along with an idea I have been thinking about for a couple of years now. (More on that in the next issue) The way I look at it, if you don't burn the bridge behind you, it will still be there if you need a quick getaway. LOL.

So now I am going to run bi-monthly for the next couple issues then go back to monthly for the summer. Yep, you're all stuck with me at Twister, Fall Ride, Cannon Run Party and all the other rallies I attend. And I do plan on catching some new ones as well. Along with some new places that are related to Wisconsin and the upper Midwest that are located in other areas like the Andersonville Prison outside of Atlanta, GA (story inside) that has some Wisconsin ties. There is a lot of history and spot to see, and I plan on letting you know about them. If you know of any places like this let me know, since I am always looking for readers thoughts about things.

And to all the advertisers that got back in after my little break, thank you and let's get the party started again, shall we. Final thought! I have mentioned that I am going to speak my mind and not worry about what people think. Well let me start by saying I am going to support bikers/riders that support the FRP. If you favor some useless national fancy glossy magazine (my opinion) that gives you great news and stories from around the country, for everywhere but here, God Bless You. I will give you their address for a subscription. If you think you are better than others because of the clothes, riding gear and kind of bike you ride. Set down this paper and step away from the fantastic read. Because you're so full of yourself that you probably don't do much for the betterment of riding in general anyways. I once had a friend that works at a dealership tell me that he thought I was anti HD Dealer. I am far from that. I am anti brother and Sister that think they are better than the old school rider. And lastly I highly suggest that ALL riders get off their asses and support in some way, shape or form the way of life that Wisconsin riders enjoy at this time. Because if you sit back and the lifestyle goes to crap, I will know right where to point the finger, and I think you all will to.

Enjoy this issue and I will have another out before March God willing. Don't forget about all the Swap Meets and Winter parties that are going on in the off season.

A Faithful Son

From break of dawn, 'til the day is gone
And moon-glow lights the sky,
Somewhere out there on the road
A GYPSY passes by.

He's here today.....then gone away
A jammin' in the wind.
He might return.....or maybe not
Dependin' on his whim.

He's got his sled and a bag of stuff
That lashes on the rear.
He owns what's in his pockets,
That's all his earthly gear.

He lives a life that suits him well,
And hopes yours fits the same.
But if it don't, don't cry to him,
'Cuz he sure aint to blame.

The only life he's runnin' is his,
And his is on the run.
'Cuz God made roads to travel on,
And he's a faithful son!

"Bingo's Downed Biker Fund"

If you have a Brother or Sister down and would like to get them the Free Riders Press, NO PROBLEM, be glad to do it but it does cost money. A lot of people help out by donating some coin. We here will do what we can, but with everybody giving what they can, we will make it go a long way. We all know somebody that's down, and anything would be greatly appreciated.
