

A Great Family Function.

Harley's First Rumble

Back on May 9th, the Harley Museum in Milwaukee, WI held it's "First Rumble" for all riders to enjoy. As with many many May events, the weather can wreak havoc on any well planned good time. This is exactly what happened on this particular day. The attendance was steady through out the day, but was nowhere near what was anticipated.

Lorie and I arrived at the museum around 3pm to a very somber crowd that seemed to be really intrigued with what they were seeing, hearing and being part of. The music, the demos, and drag racing with prizes all seemed to pull the minimal attendee's in their directions. The gift shop and restaurant were open as well as an H-D tech giving out info about the new models including the trike.

New and Old Bikes in Attendance...

Some Racers trying their Skills..

Even though the museum itself was available to go through at a charge, the folks at Harley I feel out did themselves, and deserve a big pat on the back. I look forward to going through the museum again soon, due to the fact you can't absorb all the info thrown out at you on a whirl wind tour. For more info on the museum and all of it's exhibits, Bike Night at Motor and much more go to their website
