Memorial Day Weekend

By Skypilot Freelance writer

I hope you all had a great Memorial Day and looked upwards to thank all those that paid the Ultimate Sacrifice, the giving of their life to try to help people in different countries that live in crappy conditions because of Dictators wanting to become richer and the hell with the people that live there.

This year I'm very proud, because my youngest is in the United States Army Airborne Ranger (he is third generation) and I know one day I could get a knock on my door and be told HE PAID THE ULTIMATE SACRIFICE. I wouldn't like it, but his life would be taken trying to help another person and maybe even one of his TEAM Members.

We were at a Brother's house for his annual get together for Memorial day. There was a lot of good Brotherhood SisterHood, Food and Music. Sunday night we had to hurry and move all the Bands equipment into his work shop before the storm hit.

There was only one problem when we went down on Memorial Day to the Wall was refused access to get in. Luckily a copy of Brothers got in but I still don't know if they got to do that. I don't even do Rolling Thunder on Sundays any more, due to it being a money making thing. People have forgotten the meaning behind "The Wall" ..... it is suppose to go reflect and respect the 58,282 on that black granite, not to go and buy crap off Vietnamese Vendors. That is why years ago we would go down on the Monday after Rolling Thunder.

Before I even left Maryland I called my Congressman to ask why or to find out why we were denied access to "THE WALL". that "WALL" should never be closed to any Vietnam Veteran or Families of Fallen Heroes. Years ago we started by putting donation jars in VFW, American Legion, Mini Marts and places like that. So we had a place that we could say goodbye and cry for them because once that Medivac Chopper took them to a Field Hospital 9 out of 10 guys died on the way to the Evac Hospital. I've made 18 trips to "THE WALL" to say my goodbyes and to have my closer. One time I was honored to take my oldest Blood Brother(who did two tours in Nam just like me).

But to have Secret Service and Homeland Security close and refuse entrance to one of

Rest His Soul

Vietnam was an era, a decade of time that would weld in us concern.
We would leave our homes and fly to a place, where we had to learn.

Their people didn't like us much,
With guns they'd shoot to kill.
The bullets would rip through our flesh,
then our blood would spill.

The phone would ring , His mother would answer, then her eyes would tear.
His father would sit with shaking hands,
He knew of all the fear.

Their son has died with honor they're told,
as they fall in slumber.
Another man, another life,
He won't be just a number.

Bitter thoughts confuse the heart,
The memories don't go away.
His gentle touch, with spoken words,
It's going to be OK.

All gave some and some gave all,
the patch my brothers wear.
We ride for freedom and tell the world,
We will always care.

The old man cried, his thoughts would tear the memories from his heart.
A bullet had taken his brother's life.
Sixty years they've been apart.

And now I look into his eyes,
they're wet with grief, it's sad.
He closed his eyes to rest his soul,
This old man was my Dad.

the most sacred thing a Vietnam Veteran has to go to, to get that closer they need is a joke. Vietnam Veterans should be the first ones on any list they have.

"I LOVE MY COUNTRY AND I'M WILLING TO SHED MY BLOOD (WHICH I DID) FOR HER AND EVEN DIE, BUT I TOTALLY HATE AND DESPISE MY GOVERNMENT"

Well again it's time to sign off till next month, as always thank you for taking your time to read our newspaper. Say a prayer for those who are still deployed somewhere. I Love You all. " KEEP ON TRIKEN' ". Wahdo to all are loyal fans and keep on reading all the Articles. I pray that everyone out there have a safe ride and the Great Eagle is helping you with the path you've chosen to take.
