Well here we go again with a fly by the seat editorial. I don't really have much to bitch about, but yet things don't seem to be right in the world. Boy is this going to be fun NOT getting political. LOL

For 13 plus years now I have been running a family friendly motorcycle newspaper. I have focused on keeping the lifestyle alive and kickin', but I messed up. I worked too hard at helping people out instead of running it like a business. A business that needs to run a plus in the cash. Am I running low on cash, not really, the Free Riders Press supports itself ok, but I need to change the way I do things. When I started I went way out of my way to help and support everyone I could. This includes Veterans groups, disabled/down and out people, bike accident victims (especially right of way crashes) and so many more. Many ads offered in the past for little or no charge. Well who's the dumb-ass in the scenario? Me!

All I can do is keep on, right? The sad thing is I really don't mind helping people, it's in my being, but I again had a club get mad at me for not putting their event in the calendar. Hey dumb-ass, did you call me? Did your secretary send me an e-mail of the event to add to the calendar? Fk no! Most people out there are so apathetic that they don't know the first thing about dealing with people except their own "Brothers". Well let me tell you, some out there have no flipping clue what that means. So again I am going to try to explain this to you idiots that are slow learners.

In short, if someone helps you, you should return the favor. You may not be able to return the favor today, but at some point in the future it is sorta expected. I know some people that have gone way out of their way to help and are too timid shall we say to ask for anything in return. Who's fault is that? The person helping, but the "brotherhood" aspect should kick in immediately and offer some type of thanks or payment. No I am not talking about me and the FRP. But I for one, if you want my respect, you better damn well give me respect from the start. I feel in today's biker lifestyle there is way too much macho bullshit, and way too little common courtesy.

Enough of that! Has anyone got their plans for the month of July and especially independence day. I plan on catching a parade somewhere or maybe spend time with my family. But the weird thing is I am wondering if we didn't fight way back when to win independence from England just to be steering in the present day right back into the jaws of repression. Anyone hear anymore on Waco? How about the silent positions that are buried waste deep that the feds are pushing mandatory this and that for all riders? I chat with different people and it seems to be a consensus that we are losing the fight when it comes to freedoms and liberties.

What does this mean to you? To me it means a part of our history. The people of this great country better get a pair or we are all doomed.

Mission Statement

This paper was started out of the love and respect for being in the wind, and the brothers and sisters that are in the wind also. I have been riding all my life and have learned what brotherhood means. The Free Riders Press is a paper dedicated to the biker who knows this respect. Not barring any rider for what he wears or rides. We try to cover stories that make the public sit back and have a positive outlook on bikers. We will try to cover events that are for the biker and put on by the biker. This paper will be used to better the riding community through education, updates and personal views that are of positive thinking for the riding community in general. We will try to fight the ongoing discrimination that seems to be thrown onto us without our view being told. Free Riders Press is for all to enjoy, so by working together someday we can be free in the wind, without the worry of any of the aforementioned items.

I had a chance to catch the send off of Sandy's Ride this year from Pro-Motorsports in Brokaw, WI. I would like to thank everyone that have supported this event throughout the years. A big thanks from Denny and crew...

Meet This Month's Next Generation Rider.
Meet Ross who is one sharp dressed man. He was headed to senior prom.

If you have a picture of your Next Generation Rider, feel free to send it in to me. Who knows it just might kick start a Hollywood career for them. Send those pic's to preacher@freeriderspress.us or by snail mail to PO Box 1126 Wautoma, WI 54982

Thx for listening. Have a great month. Ride free...
