Underneath the L-tracks, a little jazz club at 416 S. Clark called 'Close Up 2' with a band called 'Snatch, Inc.' Parking; man, what a hassle. I asked the security guard at the Correctional facility across the street if I could park behind the dumpster so I wouldn't get a ticket. He said, 'I'm a fucking cop and this is a prison, get the hell out of here.' Yeah well, that's not the story anyway. It's going to be FRP's introduction to Chicago's hardcore black biker scene. I'm going to interview this dude, Ron Albert, a.k.a. Lone Wolf and ride with him, starting out at Something Kool Cocktail Lounge on 8022 S. Cottage Grove in Chicago. I will tell you this, at 3AM cruising down the Ike, doing the 'ton' 100 plus through the visceral heart of the city, no traffic and cool spring midnight air, an incredible buzz, electric neon sky, twisting the throttle. Glory be, baby, tra-la-la.
