

Need to get-a-way?

When you think of a motorcycle destination, what comes to mind? A poker run, rally or maybe a campground! If you want to check out some place cool, your choice has got to be the Blue Highway Motorcycle Lodge in Hillsboro, Wisconsin. This place is a little like heaven from the hustle and bustle stand point. It's secluded, quiet, romantic and just plain relaxing.

Lorie and I headed down for a night away from the kids (gotta love that) for a nice slow paced time. Surrounded by hilly fields of corn and wheat swaying in the wind. The sound of the Amish's horse drawn buggies clapping on the pavement. Oh ya!!

Brandy & Dan Vuich built this dream in Hillsboro after spending years looking for the perfect spot. Being from the chaotic world of Chicago, it took a little getting used to the quiet for them, but no regrets.

The cottages are all equipped with a king sized bed, fridge, micro, full bath with whirlpool for 2, screened in porch, grill/utensils, fire pit/ fire logs and a hose if you want to clean off your ride. Dan says, "No One has used the hoses yet, but we figure it's a nice touch."

And just in case your saying to yourself, What is there to do during the day? A reasonable distance from the lodge is the Wisconsin Dells (30 miles) Madison (90 miles) and Lacrosse (50 miles), with excellent not heavily traveled but well maintained roads. If you have never ridden in the western part of the state you don't know what your missing. The twisty turns, bluff like roadsides and pleasant views from the hill tops is exquisite. They have brochures for different destinations and are more than happy to suggest places to see.

Prices at $165/night on weekends, you do seem to get a lot more than you would staying at an expensive motel. But then again what is it worth to get some real R&R? With Blue Highway being bikes only April through October makes it more desirable for many riders. Check out their website at www.blue-highwaymotorcyclelodge.net for more information and pricing. Will we be back, most definitely. Groups are always welcome, but get your reservation in early because the cabins don't last long. (608) 489-4131
